Restless

Author's Notes:
Day three of the thirty-day drabble challenge!

Alex was crawling out of his skin as he looked out the window for the tenth time, scanning the street. Nothing.

Cursing under his breath, he paced down the hallway and into the den. He flopped on the couch and picked up a music magazine. He paged through it, but it couldn't hold his interest.

He glanced at the clock. How could it only be five?

The doorbell rang and he jumped to his feet. He ran to the door and felt a grin stretch his cheeks when he saw his beloved Geddy, standing shyly on his parents' front porch.
